The F. N. Wright & Co. brick yard is another important industry, situated upon Flat river, having railway facilities. About 3,000,000 bricks are manufactured.

Wright Bros. & Co. is one of Greenville's large mill institutions. The plant is a full roller process mill with water power and railway facilities. The output is 150 barrels daily.

F. N. Wright & Co.'s Saw Works.

Situated upon the bank of Flat river, in the center of the city, is the plant of the above-named institution. It consists of a group of buildings and accessories in whose pine, Norway lumber, shingles and lath handles annually 35,000,000 feet. It owns and operates many extensive plants in the state, and is selling its product in nearly every state of the union. At Lake City, in Missaukee county, it is operating a band mill, cutting pine, capacity 40,000 feet per day; at West Troy, in Newaygo county, a circular mill is cutting 40,000 feet of pine daily; at Hoxeyville, Wexford county, a circular mill is cutting 40,000 feet of pine every day; at Snowflake, Antrim county, a circular mill is cutting 40,000 feet of hard wood lumber every day; at Hixley, Newaygo county, a circular dining room, at once the mecca and delight of the fatigued and famished traveler, is finished in oak, and the frescoes, and set in the highest type of dining hall furniture. It is lighted and ventilated by an ample skylight. Every floor contains closets and baths and is provided with fire escapes, stand pipes and hose. The kitchen, laundry and vegetable cellars are built entirely of stone. The table service is unsurpassed in Michigan. Mr. Phelps is well known to the Grand Rapids public, as a generous and capable caterer, as manager for the season of '92, of Cascade Hotel, at Cascade Springs. The Hotel Phelps contains 51 and foreign exchange. It handles commercial paper extensively, and has a fine line of customers. Locally it has a call on the best class of business.

In addition to its Greenville institution the firm has a bank at Lowell, which has been doing a flourishing business for several years, and is about to establish a third at Freeport.

He had fourteen majority over both opposing candidates. For a man thus to run into office and re-elect himself to the same office, supported by neither political party and opposed by both, is a political marvel. Dr. Nichols is proprietor of a fine jewelry store in Greenville and until recently a fine drug store. He also has extensive landed interests in northern Michigan. He is a member of the Knights of Pythias, Royal Arcanum, K. O. T. M. and Knights of Honor. He is a public-spirited, progressive citizen, and enjoys the personal acquaintance of many of the foremost politicians of America. His friends are legion, his professional very undesirable—and the government is robbed of this necessary function. This is done, however, in the interest of Wall street, and the bond holders of the country.

"Some of the brightest minds of the recent political arena have been advocates of the principal issues of this party." Among them are Peter Cooper, Wendell Phillips, General James B. Weaver, Senators Jones, Teller, Stuart and others. Ex-Vice-President Hendricks, Senators Piesser, Kyle and Dan W. Voorhees have advocated our cause. In a recent speech the Hon. Don M. Dickinson said: "The time is coming when out from the state capitals and out from the national capitol will go the national bank ring, the railway ring and the land-grab ring, and cessories and occupies an ample tract. The members of the firm are: F. N. Wright, C. T. Wright, Mayette Wright, Henry Watson, M. J. Moore and C. J. Abbott.

The plant consists of three buildings. The machine room, wood-working room and paint shops occupy a building 32 by 100 feet, three floors. The molding room occupies a building 41 by 70 feet, the store rooms and grinding room occupy a building 25 by 75 feet, four stories. The plant is adjacent to railways.

The plant was established in 1890, May 1, for the manufacture of chilled and steel plows. It is possessed of an ample outfit for first-class work, and allows no competitor to be better prepared, either by superior methods or machines, to attain the highest possible results known to the trade. It owns mill is cutting 25,000 feet of hemlock lumber every day, and at Cherry Grove Siding, Wexford county, a circular mill is cutting 25,000 feet of pine daily. These six mills are all of the most modern type of saw mill construction, and fitted with all the accessories requisite to the most speedy and economical handling of lumber.

The members of the firm of John J. Foster & Co. are John J. Foster and H. N. Anderson. Their business office occupies a central location in the city, and is the scene of the transaction of many of the largest lumber transactions made in Michigan product in these modern days.

the plant and patterns of the Frutman Brothers, late of Three Rivers, and now make their celebrated chilled plows with both wood and iron beams. The design and mechanical construction of the Wright plows are those which long use and scientific experimentation have established as best suited to produce the highest results in this implement. The goods are sold upon honor, accompanied by the following guarantee:

"We guarantee to the dealer, as well as to the farmer, that every plow made by us will give perfect satisfaction, subject to a 10-day trial in the field. If it fails to comply with this warranty, after being tried by both, the plow can be returned to the dealer and the money refunded."

Plows No. 21 (shown above) and 80 are special models of high merit. It is needless to add the firm enjoys a large and rapidly growing trade.

They practically transact all of the lumber business which finds its way through the medium of Greenville's commerce day. The city is piped with twelve miles of mains and connections, and is supplied with a superior article of gas. Rates $2 per thousand feet for illumination and $1.25 for fuel.

In connection with the gas office he conducts a general trade in coal, coke and wood.

Mr. Foster is also a director in the City National Bank, a member of the firm of L. H. Wright & Co., and of the firm of Foster & Miller. The latter firm, potato buyers, recently paid farmers $20,035 for potatoes in six days.

Hotel Phelps is the finest caravanary in interior Michigan. The style and elegance of the place are excelled by few metropolitan institutions; the cuisine by none. The structure is immense in proportions, ornate in its exterior and interior decorations, rich in oak carvings and modern furniture, fire proof in construction and managed by the best hotel men that ever "roomed a lodger." This hotel was opened to the public Dec. 25, 1888, was built at a cost of $50,000, and was designed to adequately meet the highest requirements of the traveling public. It was built by its proprietor, T. I. Phelps, a man thoroughly acquainted with the needs of the situation, gener-rooms, single and en suite. There is not one but that is furnished in natural wood, carpeted with Brussels carpet, provided with modern furniture, electric service, steam heat and access to the outside. Many of these apartments are appointed in sumptuous style. On the front of the building are two lofty bays which afford for the rooms to which they are attached opportunities for delightful views outside and for beautiful effects in drapery and finish inside.

Connected with the hotel is the finest livery service in the state. T. I. Phelps is one of the solid men of Greenville. Aside from being the proud owner of Hotel Phelps, he owns the Phelps opera house, is a stockholder in local manufacturing enterprises and a man who enjoys among his fellow men an enviable reputation for his many excellencies of mind and heart. Associated with him, as clerk of the house, is Mr. A. B. Gardner, a gentleman of culture and refinement, who makes his constant study, and who enjoys the gratitude and esteem of the traveling public.

ly's organization in Michigan, he leads his allies through the brilliant and successful campaign which closed with the late election. Alva W. Nichols comes of a professional family, which has occupied a conspicuous position in professional and educational fields for many years. He was born in Canonsville, Kentucky, Mich. Oct. 6, '48. Until Dr. Nichols reaches his thirteenth year he attended no school but his father's. He afterwards attended various schools, and by his own efforts gathered an education of which few men are possessed. In 1872-73 he attended the state university at Ann Arbor, and was graduated by the Bellevue Hospital Medical college, in New York city, in 1874. In 1882 he took a special course at the New York Eye and Ear Infirmary under Prof. Noyes and Mittenfior. At the same time he took a special course in the outdoor department of Bellevue under Prof. Bosworth. Greenville has been the scene of Dr. Nichols' eighteen years of professional practice. He is president of the Northern Michigan Agricultural society, a member of the American Medical association, and of the Michiability is widely acknowledged. He contributed, some time since, an article on "Chronic Catarrh," which was reprinted in the leading medical journals of America. He is a surgeon of rare skill and sagacity. Commenting upon the results of the recent campaign, Dr. Nichols lately said: "I do not agree with President Harrison's declaration that these are prosperous times. For the money interests of Wall street they are, but for the masses it is far different. I think the late election bears me out in my conclusions. Notwithstanding I am of the conviction that had the republican party preserved its financial policy of the early 60's it would have lived a long life. I think that today that party's death knell has been sounded. I think that hereafter the national contests will be between the people's and democratic parties. We have a strength that few men appreciate. I look for great changes in the tone of metropolitan newspapers in the near future. We want more heroic papers which will stand by the people as against the money interests of Wall street."

Church's Bank. For many years the banking institution which has borne the above name has been one of the most prominent in Michigan. With a single exception its proprietor, Charles J. Church, is the oldest private banker in the state. For a long time of years he was the sole banker of Greenville, and has always enjoyed a wide reputation for financial soundness and business sagacity and integrity. His bank is one of the best known in Michigan, if not in the west.

The Greenville bank occupies a conspicuous business site in the city, in the heart of the mercantile district. It is fitted with all the necessary accessories of a metropolitan institution. Its vaults are of the highest type known to bank architecture.

The business of the bank comprises a general loan, collection and savings business. Particular attention is paid to issuing foreign paper, letters of credit and State Medical society. He has served with distinction as a member of the board of trustees of the Michigan Asylum for the Insane at Kalamazoo. Dr. Nichols early became identified with the Greenback party, and waged many vigorous campaigns therefor throughout the state. For three years he held a position as pension examining surgeon. In 1888 he was elected a presidential elector on the fusion ticket. In 1891 he was elected president of the Citizens' Alliance of Michigan. He has represented his ward as its superior three years.

The Independent, the republican organ of Greenville, had this to say of Dr. Nichols upon his recent election as superior: "Dr. A. Nichols, the political hustler, was nominated by no party, and his name was printed on no ticket, but he got there just the same, on slips pasted nearly equally upon the republican and democratic tickets."

its. Its officers are: President, Lefroy Moore; vice president, H. N. Anderson; cashier, A. C. Phelps. The banking office is elegantly appointed, and occupies a central position in the mercantile center of the town in a fine business block owned by its president.

President Lefroy Moore of the bank is mayor of Greenville, having been elected to that honorable position upon the democratic ticket in the spring of 1892.

Mr. Moore is extensively engaged in large manufacturing enterprises both in Michigan and the east.
